TO THINK, TALK, MAKE

FOREWORD

Just think. Think loud. Think out loud. Louder than a balloon popping. Louder than the sirens blaring. Louder than a plane taking off. Think loud. Think out loud. Kick the dust up. Send up the smoke signals. Skip the shallow water, and start at the deep end. Think of the loudest thing you can think of and then think louder than that. Just thinking—what if, why not, how come—is not enough if no one can hear it. The world is loud, so think louder. Make us stop and listen. Make us hear it.
